GREAT DISASTER AT SEA

Ill-fated Sea Monster Carried 2,170 Souls and Less Than 800 Escape in Life Boats When Vessel Collides With Monster Iceberg—Many Notable Persons Perish in Disaster Which Appalls Civilized World.

AID COMES TOO LATE

John Jacob Astor's Name Does Not Appear in List of Those Rescued, But Wife Is Reported Safe on Board Vessel Bound For New York.

Wireless Flash Received at St. Johns Gives Faint Ray of Hope That Incoming Vessel May Be Bringing More Victims of the Greatest Marine Disaster Recorded in Years.

New York, April 16. — While the fate of the majority of the 2,400 persons on board the mammoth White Star liner Titanic, which sank on the Newfoundland banks after a collision with an iceberg, still remains in doubt, and it is feared more than 1,300 persons were lost, a note of good cheer came from the ocean ways by wireless. It was in the shape of a wireless message from the White Star liner Olympic, one of the vessels hovering near the scene of the disaster, flashing the news that 89 of the Titanic's passengers, mostly women and children, were being brought to port by the Cunarder Carpathia. Other messages later brought confirmatory tidings.

First reports were that the Carpathia had saved but 675 persons. The few figures reduced the list of those for whose fate fear was felt by nearly 200, and if, as seems possible, practically all those saved were passengers, it would appear that all but approximately 450 of the vessel's passengers are accounted for.

A partial list of the survivors received from the Carpathia includes

ASTOR AMONG THE MISSING; BRIDE IS SAVED.

New York, April 16. — The American press is following the fate of the passengers who went down with the Titanic, according to a wireless dispatch received by Bradstreet's last night from the liner Olympic. Mrs. Astor was saved and is being brought ashore by the Carpathia. The wireless operator at Cape Race flashes: "Eighteen hundred lives have been lost in the wreck of the Titanic."

The names of many women of prominence who were on the steamer. After the first desperate calls of the Titanic for help had been sent flying through space and brought steamers for hundreds of miles around speeding to the scene, what seems to have been an impenetrable wall of silence was raised between her and the anxious world. The giant liner, so far as late advice appears, went to her fate without so much as a whisper of what must have been the scenes of terrible tragedy enacted on her decks.

When the Titanic plunged headlong against a wall of ice her fate established that no modern steamship is unsinkable and that all of a large passenger list can not be saved in a liner's small boats. The White Star line believed that the Titanic was practically invulnerable, and insisted until there was no doubting the full extent of the catastrophe that she could not sink. The great ship was the last word in modern scientific construction, but she found the ocean floor almost as quickly as a wooden ship.

Was Maiden Trip.

On her maiden trip the Titanic, built and equipped at a cost of $10,000,000, a floating palace, found her graveyard. Swinging from the western steamship lane at the south of the Grand Banks of Newfoundland to take the direct run to this port, she hurled her giant bulk against an iceberg that rose from an immense field drifting unseasonably from the Arctic. Running at high speed into that grim and silent enemy of seafarers, the shock crushed her bow. From a happy, comfortable vessel she was converted in a few minutes into a ship of misery and dreadful suffering.

Most prominent persons took passage on the Titanic—some for the novelty of making the maiden voyage in the finest of all steamships—others because of the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries provided by the $10,000,000 ship.

Among these was Colonel John Jacob Astor and his bride of a few months; Alfred Vanderbilt, the head of his family; Major A. W. Butt, military aid to President Taft, who was on his way home after carrying a message to Pope Pius; Isidor Straus, the merchant, a brother of Nathan and Oscar Straus and a partner in the great department store concern of Macy & Company; Mr. and Mrs. George B. Widener of Philadelphia; Mrs. E. L. Appleton, Frank Miller, the artist; Benjamin Guggen, heir of the well-known family of that name; Henry B. Harris, the theatrical manager, and Mrs. Harris; William T. Stead, the London editor; J. Bruce Ismay, managing director of the White Star line; C. M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk railroad; Henry Harper of Harper & Company, the publishers, and Mrs. Harper; the Countess Rothes; Colonel Washington Roebling, whose father built the Brooklyn bridge; Norman C. Craig, a member of parliament; J. Clinch Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Taussig, Colonel Archibald Gracie and hundreds whose names have been more than a local significance.

HOPE HELD OUT.

New York, April 16. — A dispatch from St. Johns, N. E., this morning gives rise to the hope that the steamer Virginian has some of the Titanic's survivors aboard.

The message said she would bring to St. Johns such survivors as she "may rescue."

Hope arises from the fact that the steamer is putting in there at all, which she would scarcely do were there not some humane necessity for this action. She was outward bound for Liverpool.

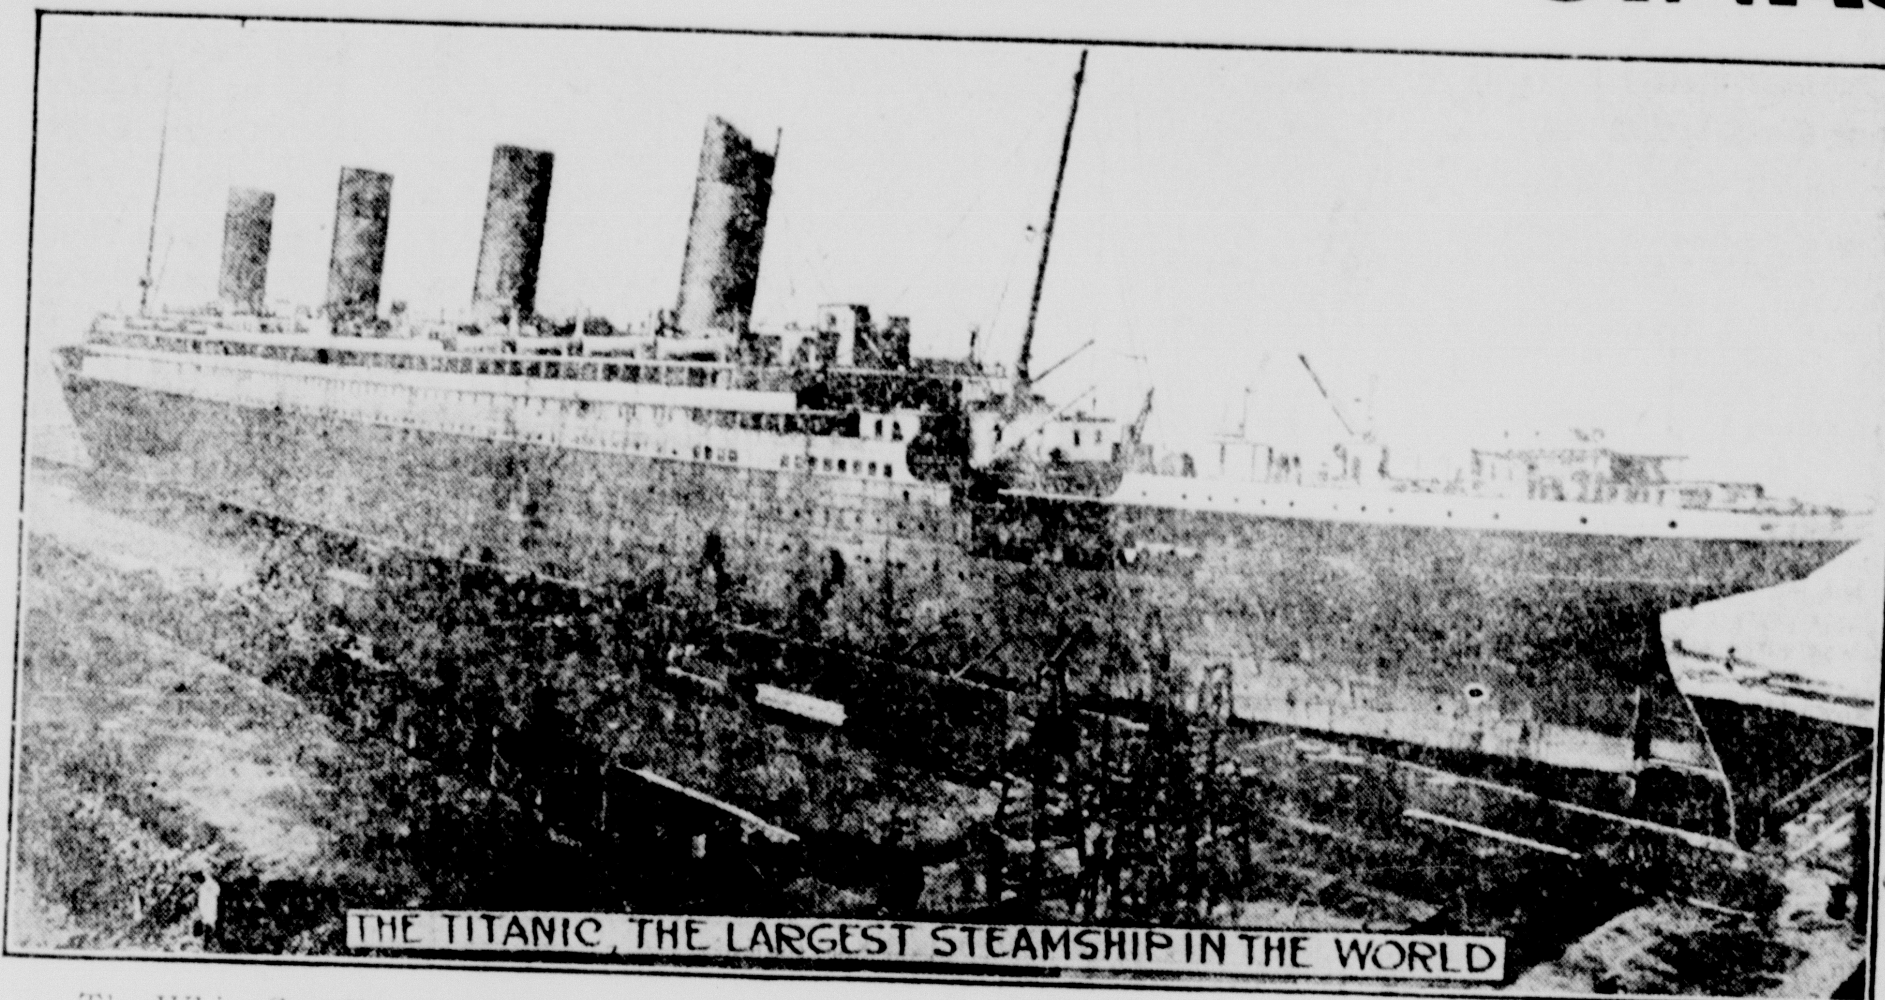

Pleasantly and evenly. Ships that spoke her reported that she was living up to the anticipations of her builders and of her line. She swung along the usual westbound lane until, approaching the Grand Banks, she came to turn for her direct westward course for this port. And there she entered the mass of ice that had worried navigators before the Titanic found her graveyard there. Captain Dow of the Carmania found himself in a perilous position owing to probably the same great drift of bergs. On Thursday the Carmania came in touch with an expanse of massive bergs that seemed to be fully a mile long and perhaps two-thirds of a mile wide. Some of the icebergs were veritable peaks, projecting hundreds of feet from the sea. They ground together constantly as they were caught by currents and the noise of their contact could be heard for many miles. It was with some difficulty that Captain Dow maneuvered his ship out of danger. He backed out literally and hunted a safer route. Passengers on the Carmania brought a description of the ice field, which is likely the same that crushed the Titanic.

THE TITANIC, THE LARGEST STEAMSHIP IN THE WORLD

The White Star liner, Titanic, with her sister ship, the Olympic, was by far the finest vessel afloat. Her dimensions were: Length, 882½ feet; beam, 92 feet; depth (from keel to tops of funnels), 175 feet; tonnage, 45,900. The huge hull, divided into 38 water-tight compartments, contained nine steel decks; provided accommodations for 2,500 passengers, besides a crew of 890. She was a triple-screw boat and her engines of 50,000 horsepower were capable of a speed of over 21 knots. In equipment she represented an expenditure of over $10,000,000.

LOSS HIGH IN MILLIONS

Lost Liner Had Valuable Cargo of Gems on Board.

New York, April 16.—The Titanic was insured at Lloyds for $5,000,000, according to advices from London, and it was said here that the International Marine company also carried a surplus fund for insurance purposes, which could be applied to the loss.

The cost of building the great liner has been estimated at $10,000,000, although Vice President Franklin of the White Star line insisted that her value was not over $8,000,000.

The total monetary loss caused by the sinking of the ship, however, is certain to run to many millions more, but the total amount can not even be conjectured. It is generally understood that the vessel had aboard diamonds of great value, estimated as high as $5,000,000, and also a large amount of bonds. The amount of freight carried was comparatively small for the size of the ship and, according to a White Star line of-

W. J. Bryan Calls Governor "Prince of Reactionaries."

BOOSTS WILSON'S CANDIDACY

Nebraskan Tells Columbus Jefferson Club Banqueters That He Is Devoting Time to Help Nominate Progressive Candidate For President Warns Against State Pride—Declares That Ohio Executive Is Backed by Wall Street Interests.

Columbus, O., April 16. — Colonel William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska put in a full day in a campaign of heated attacks upon Governor Harmon's candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the presidency. He boosted Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey as a progressive.

Colonel Bryan spoke in Ravenna, Akron, Mansfield, Loudenville, Wooster and elsewhere before coming to Columbus to address the Jefferson club's banquet. Today he will speak in a number of cities and towns on his way to Steubenville. Previous to his appearance at the banquet, progressive Democrats met in conference here and gave out statements, saying they would carry all of the congressional districts in the state save the two in Hamilton county, the home of Governor Harmon. Only half a dozen districts were represented at the conference.

Governor Harmon was not present at the banquet to hear himself roasted. Colonel Bryan termed him Wall street's candidate and the prince of reactionaries. He made his principal points against Harmon's opposition to the Bryan cause in 1896 and his alleged support of "big business." Colonel Bryan received demonstrative applause from the 700 banqueters and cries of "No, no," when he said that others could poll more votes than he. He said that Thomas Jefferson fits in with the militant spirit of progress of the day and declared aristocracy was dying throughout the world.

Why He Is In Ohio.

"I am devoting my time to help nominate a progressive," said he. "The best way to do it is to keep a reactionary from being nominated. I am in Ohio to tell them not to allow state pride to endorse a prince of reactionaries. There's nothing personal in my opposition to Governor Harmon. I am just as friendly to him as he has been to me. The issue is the same as in 1896, the people against Wall street. The money question was merely an incident as the tariff is an issue now."

Colonel Bryan said that Governor Harmon, then 50 years of age, had joined with President Cleveland in opposing him in 1896, and said Harmon's sympathies haven't changed. He asked support for Governor Wilson and Wilson delegates. Governor Harmon had twice supported him (Bryan) for president after he had been nominated, which he said was quite different from supporting him before Governor Harmon, he declared, knew of coercion used to best him in his three defeats.

He arraigned Governor Harmon for fighting him in Nebraska and promised the banqueters that if he were defeated for delegate he would go to Baltimore anyway. James J. Hill and J. P. Morgan favored Governor Harmon, he said.

"I know there hasn't been a campaign in which I couldn't have purchased the presidency if I would sell the people," said Colonel Bryan. He could have had the support of the interests if he had promised to name judges selected by them.

The speaker attacked Governor Harmon for attacking the initiative and referendum before the constitutional convention. No man, he said, was fit for the presidency who had broken a platform pledge. "Governor Harmon might do in the stone age; he won't do now," said Colonel Bryan.

Lewis Jury Discharged.

St. Louis, April 16.—Standing 9 to 3 for conviction, the jury in the case of E. C. Lewis was discharged, after the foreman announced a hopeless disagreement existed.

Soft Coal Strike Settled.

Indianapolis, April 16.—Miners and operators in the bituminous coal industry of the United States will be at peace for the coming two years. The compromise wage agreement negotiated by the joint conference at Cleveland has been approved in a referendum vote of the soft coal workers of the United Mine Workers of America. Tabulation of the vote indicates that at least 200,000 of the approximate 250,000 miners voting have ratified the agreement.

BOOSTS WILSON'S CANDIDACY

Nebraskan Tells Columbus Jefferson Club Banqueters That He Is Devoting Time to Help Nominate Progressive Candidate For President Warns Against State Pride—Declares That Ohio Executive Is Backed by Wall Street Interests.

Columbus, O., April 16. — Colonel William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska put in a full day in a campaign of heated attacks upon Governor Harmon's candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the presidency. He boosted Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey as a progressive.

Colonel Bryan spoke in Havenna, Akron, Mansfield, Loudenville, Wooster and elsewhere before coming to Columbus to address the Jefferson club's banquet. THE BRYAN MEETING

"The Great Commoner" Handles the Candidacy of Judson Harmon Without Gloves.

AN UNMERCIFUL ARRAIGNMENT

In Which Ohio's Governor Is Denounced as the Creature and the Choice of Wall Street. Matchless Oratory Holds the Great Crowd Spellbound.

In one of the strongest speeches ever made against Wall street and a "Wall street candidate", William Jennings Bryan, "The Great Commoner" addressed a tremendous crowd which assembled on the court house lawn at 11:05 Tuesday morning.

Long before time for his arrival the Empire Opera House, which had been secured for the occasion, was crowded beyond its capacity, while hundreds could not gain admission.

It was early seen that the opera house would prove inadequate to hold the crowd of people, and the weather being favorable the court house steps were chosen as the place from which Mr. Bryan should speak.

Men and women from all over the county were present and a large crowd met the special train at the Pennsylvania depot. Attorney F. A. Chaffin, chairman of the Fayette County Democratic Central committee, and Mr. George Inskeep joined Mr. Bryan's train at Wilmington. Mr. Joseph H. Harper, Secretary of the Democratic State Central Committee, who joined Mr. Bryan's special train at Columbus Monday evening and accompanied him to this city.

Henry Kampf, editor of the Piqua Leader-Dispatch, candidate for delegate to the National Democratic convention, joined the party at this point. Other prominent Democrats were included in the party among them National Committeeman Harvey C. Garber.

The Public schools were dismissed in order that the pupils and teachers might hear the noted orator. The Chillicothe Presbytery, in session at the Presbyterian church, also adjourned.

Mr. Bryan and party were met at the depot by the Washington band, and automobiles quickly carried the party to a point opposite the court house walk on Court street, and by the time Mr. Bryan reached the court house steps, they were crowded. The sun shone so brightly that the north steps were chosen and the big crowd of eager citizens swept around the court house as Mr. Bryan and his companions walked through the court house.

As Mr. Bryan had already made several speeches he seated himself on the court house steps while Mr. Chaffin made a short introductory speech, in which he presented Mr. Bryan as one of the greatest men the world ever knew. At the close of Mr. Chaffin's well chosen and complimentary remarks, Mr. Bryan stepped forward and was met with a round of loud applause, which was repeated time and time again during his speech.

Mr. Bryan did not mince words in denouncing the candidacy of Governor Harmon for president. He openly charged that Ohio's governor was now and had been all his life the servant of Wall street and opposed to the interest of the people.

In the forty-five minutes allotted to him to speak, Mr. Bryan reviewed the political record of Judson Harmon, presenting it, he claimed, in such a light that his candidacy for the presidency could not appeal favorably to any Democratic voter.

Mr. Bryan strongly urged the voters to support both Henry Kampf of Piqua and Chas. Keuhner of Madison county as delegates to the National convention of this district, stating that they were progressives and would support in the National convention a progressive candidate.

Mr. Bryan stated that he was against Judson Harmon because he was a reactionary, that he was in favor of Woodrow Wilson or any other progressive against any reactionary no matter what their names might be. He was not opposed, he said, to Governor Harmon because of personal reasons, but he believed him to be a man possessed of such deep political convictions on principles opposed to the rights of the people that he could not be trusted with the office of president.

Mr. Bryan said that he was not a candidate for the presidential nomination, that there was a time when he believed he could poll more votes than any other Democrat, but that now he believed there were other Democrats who could poll more votes than he could and that all he asked of the party voters was to nominate a progressive and let him fight for that progressive. He said that he had made three campaigns and had done the best he could and that if the people thought he was a good fighter when fighting for himself, they should give him a progressive candidate to fight for and then see how he could fight.

In closing he said that he owed much to the American people, that the American people had been kind to him; that they had rewarded him far greater than he deserved, and that he proposed to devote the remainder of his life to paying that debt. He had paid, he said, ten installments on that debt on Monday, and ten more would be paid on Tuesday. In May he would come again to Ohio and pay other installments on that debt; that he would be at Baltimore at the Democratic convention paying installments on that debt using all his influence to bring about the nomination of a progressive for president. He said that he proposed to keep paying on the debt he owed the American people as long as he lived and when he died all he asked was that the American people say of him that he worked and fought for them, and that he never was known to surrender or counsel surrender to the enemies of the people.

A tremendous burst of applause greeted the close of Mr. Bryan's speech delivered in the matchless style of oratory which has made him famous all over the world.

He was hurried through the crowd of cheering people to the waiting automobile and thence to the special train on the C. & M. V. for Circleville, Lancaster and southeastern Ohio cities where he closes his present tour tonight.

Cut Glass And How It Is Made

The cutting of glass is a fine art that has only within a few years developed in the United States, but in the brief time since it began The American cut glass has surpassed that of any other country for brilliancy, sharpness of cutting and pure whiteness of material.

There is only one kind of glass that can be cut successfully; that is called lead flint glass. It is much heavier than any other, much softer also, and has a beautiful resonant metallic ring.

The blanks, as they come from the blowing factories are given to a cutter, who marks on the surface a design with a camel's hair brush using red lead paint. The glass is then cut to a certain depth on these lines with soft steel wheels driven by power. Sand or carborundum mixed with water runs from a hopper in a steady stream on the cutting wheels. The first process is called "roughing."

Carborundum has been used only recently for cutting glass. It is the sand, whichever is used, is washed once a week and some new added, so as to keep the hopper filled.

The articles are now given to another glass cutter, who goes all over the rougher work with different kinds of fine sandstones and cuts in the more delicate work, which cannot be done on a soft steel wheel. This leaves the article with a dull gray finish. There is always a steady stream of water on these stones.

Artificial stones made from alundum are used for the finer work, such as the silver and diamond and small stars, because these stones are much harder than those that come from the quarries in England and Scotland. They hold the mitre much better.

When the glass is smooth it is thoroughly washed with soap and luke warm water and dried in boxwood sawdust, that being the second process, called "smoothing." The article is then painted inside with warm paraffine and is now ready to polish. This is done by dipping it into a mixture of hydrofluoric acid and oil of vitriol contained in a lead pot. The paraffine protects the glass it covers from being attacked by the acid. This mixture of acid puts on the lustrous polish. After the acid dipping the paraffine is taken off and again washed.

The polisher now looks the article over carefully and removes small defects with a felt wheel and pumice powder mixed with water. After being gone over with putty powder mixed with water, receiving another washing and drying with boxwood sawdust the article is finished.

Cut lime glass made from silicate of calcium is one of the imitations of lead flint glass. It is brittle, lacks brilliancy in the cut article, it can easily be detected by weight, which is very light, and has a dead sound. Lead gives the best glass its weight, its lustre and its resonant metallic ring. Exchange.

Foodstuff Importations Are Rapidly Increasing

The fact that 2 1/2 million bushels of potatoes were imported into the United States in February, or about twice as much as the average annual importations during the decade ending with 1912, lends interest to figures compiled by the Bureau of Statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor, showing the imports of food stuffs into the United States. Imports of foodstuffs of all kinds for the 8 months ending with February, 1912, aggregated 263 million dollars against 224 million in the corresponding period of 1911 and 145 million in 1912, having thus nearly doubled in ten years. The chief growth occurs in the class of articles not grown in the United States, such as coffee, tea, cocoa, and tropical fruits.

Coffee, Tea and Cocoa.—Imports under this head have greatly increased during the decade, though in coffee the growth is solely due to higher prices. Eight months imports of coffee show a decrease in quantity from 769 million pounds in 1902 to 692 million in 1912, while the value increased from 49 million dollars to 78 million, the average import price advancing from 6.3 cents per pound in 1902 to nearly 13 cents in 1912. Cocoa imports in the 8 months under review increased from 34 million pounds in 1902 to 79 million pounds in the current fiscal, and the value including prepared cocoa and chocolate, from 4 1/2 million dollars to over 9 million. Tea imports have also increased both in quantity and value, the 8 months' fiscal figures being 87 million pounds valued at 15 1/4 million dollars, compared with 64 million pounds valued at 8 million dollars a decade earlier.

Sugar.—Eight months' imports in 1900 aggregated 2,150 million pounds valued at 46 1/2 million dollars; in 1912, 2,153 million pounds valued at 59 1/2 million dollars, the average price for each period being 2.2c and 2.8c per pound, respectively. The figures do not include, in either of the years named, the sugar from Porto Rico and Hawaii, new customs districts of the United States.

Fruits and Vegetables.—Imports of fruits and nuts are increasing at a rate of about 3 million dollars a year, the 8 months' figures having advanced big falling off in the number of geese being raised.

According to his figures, however, less geese were being raised in Ohio in 1910 than in 1900. Inquiries tend to prove that even fewer geese are coming on this year.

There also seems to be a decline in the turkey market. Two hundred thousand less were raised in 1910 than in 1900. It is to remedy these conditions that Mr. Sandies now seeks information.

Interest in chicken-raising is increasing, according to the data gathered. There scarcely is a farm in the state where some chickens are not seen. Available data shows that 233,698 out of 272,099 farms in Ohio are pretty well stocked with chickens.

To Muskingum County belongs the credit of being the largest chicken-raising county in the state. Much attention is being given to the breeding of fancy chickens, too, since there are 239 of that class in that section.

THE BRYAN MEETING

"The Great Commoner" Handles the Candidacy of Judson Harmon Without Gloves.

AN UNMERCIFUL ARRAIGNMENT

In Which Ohio's Governor Is Denounced as the Creature and the Choice of Wall Street. Matchless Oratory Holds the Great Crowd Spellbound.

In one of the strongest speeches ever made against Wall street and a "Wall street candidate," William Jennings Bryan, "The Great Commoner," addressed a tremendous crowd which assembled on the court house lawn at 11:05 Tuesday morning.

Long before time for his arrival the Empire Opera House, which had been secured for the occasion, was crowded beyond its capacity, while hundreds could not gain admission.

It was early seen that the opera house would prove inadequate to hold the crowd of people, and the weather being favorable the court house steps were chosen as the place from which Mr. Bryan should speak.

Men and women from all over the county were present, and a large crowd met the special train at the Pennsylvania depot. Attorney F. A. Chaffin, chairman of the Fayette County Democratic Central committee, and Mr. George Inskeep joined Mr. Bryan's train at Wilmington. Mr. Joseph H. Harper, Secretary of the Democratic State Central Committee, who joined Mr. Bryan's special train at Columbus Monday evening and accompanied him to this city.

Henry Kampf, editor of the Piqua Leader-Dispatch, candidate for delegate to the National Democratic convention, joined the party at this point. Other prominent Democrats were included in the party among them National Committeeman Harvey C. Garber.

The public schools were dismissed in order that the pupils and teachers might hear the noted orator. The Chillicothe Presbytery, in session at the Presbyterian church, also adjourned.

Mr. Bryan and party were met at the depot by the Washington band, and automobiles quickly carried the party to a point opposite the court house walk on Court street, and by the time Mr. Bryan reached the court house steps, they were crowded. The sun shone so brightly that the north steps were chosen and the big crowd of eager citizens swept around the court house as Mr. Bryan and his companions walked through the court house.

As Mr. Bryan had already made several speeches he seated himself on the court house steps while Mr. Chaffin made a short introductory speech, in which he presented Mr. Bryan as one of the greatest men the world ever knew. At the close of Mr. Chaffin's well chosen and complimentary remarks, Mr. Bryan stepped forward and was met with a round of loud applause, which was repeated time and time again during his speech.

Mr. Bryan did not mince words in denouncing the candidacy of Governor Harmon for president. He openly charged that Ohio's governor was now and had been all his life the servant of Wall street and opposed to the interest of the people.

In the forty-five minutes allotted to him to speak, Mr. Bryan reviewed the political record of Judson Harmon, presenting it, he claimed, in such a light that his candidacy for the presidency could not appeal favorably to any Democratic voter.

Mr. Bryan strongly urged the voters to support both Henry Kampf of Piqua and Chas. Keuhner of Madison county as delegates to the National convention of this district, stating that they were progressives and would support in the National convention a progressive candidate.

Mr. Bryan stated that he was against Judson Harmon because he was a reactionary, that he was in favor of Woodrow Wilson or any other progressive against any reactionary no matter what their names might be. He was not opposed, he said, to Governor Harmon because of personal reasons, but he believed him to be a man possessed of such deep political convictions on principles opposed to the rights of the people that he could not be trusted with the office of president.

Mr. Bryan said that he was not a candidate for the presidential nomination, that there was a time when he believed he could poll more votes than any other Democrat, but that now he believed there were other Democrats who could poll more votes than he could and that all he asked of the party voters was to nominate a progressive and let him fight for that progressive. He said that he had made three campaigns and had done the best he could and that if the people thought he was a good fighter when fighting for himself, they should give him a progressive candidate to fight for and then see how he could fight.

In closing he said that he owed much to the American people, that the American people had been kind to him; that they had rewarded him far greater than he deserved, and that he proposed to devote the remainder of his life to paying that debt. He had paid, he said, ten installments on that debt on Monday, and ten more would be paid on Tuesday. In May he would come again to Ohio and pay other installments on that debt; that he would be at Baltimore at the Democratic convention paying installments on that debt using all his influence to bring about the nomination of a progressive for president. He said that he proposed to keep paying on the debt he owed the American people as long as he lived and when he died all he asked was that the American people say of him that he worked and fought for them, and that he never was known to surrender or counsel surrender to the enemies of the people.

A tremendous burst of applause greeted the close of Mr. Bryan's speech delivered in the matchless style of oratory which has made him famous all over the world.

He was hurried through the crowd of cheering people to the waiting automobile and thence to the special train on the C. & M. V. for Circleville, Lancaster and southeastern Ohio cities where he closes his present tour tonight.

The fact that 2 1/2 million bushels of potatoes were imported into the United States in February, or about twice as much as the average annual importations during the decade ending with 1912, lends interest to figures compiled by the Bureau of Statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor, showing the imports of foodstuffs into the United States. Imports of foodstuffs of all kinds for the 8 months ending with February, 1912, aggregate 263 million dollars against 224 million in the corresponding period of 1911 and 145 million in 1912, having thus nearly doubled in ten years. The chief growth occurs in the class of articles not grown in the United States, such as coffee, tea, cocoa, and tropical fruits.

Coffee, Tea, and Cocoa.—Imports under this head have greatly increased during the decade, though in coffee the growth is solely due to higher prices. Eight months imports of coffee show a decrease in quantity from 169 million pounds in 1902 to 692 million in 1912, while the value increased from 49 million dollars to 78 million, the average import price advancing from 63 cents per pound in 1902 to nearly 13 cents in 1912. Cocoa imports in the 8 months under review increased from 34 million pounds in 1902 to 79 million pounds in the current fiscal, and the value including prepared cocoa and chocolate, from 4 1/2 million dollars to over 9 million. Tea imports have also increased both in quantity and value, the 8 months' fiscal figures being 87 million pounds valued at 15 1/4 million dollars, compared with 64 million pounds valued at 8 million dollars a decade earlier.

Sugar.—Eight months' imports in 1900 aggregated 2,150 million pounds valued at 46 1/2 million dollars; in 1912, 2,153 million pounds valued at 59 1/2 million dollars, the average price for each period being 2.2c and 2.8c per pound, respectively. The figures do not include, in either of the years named, the sugar from Porto Rico and Hawaii, new customs districts of the United States.

Fruits and Vegetables.—Imports of fruits and nuts are increasing at a rate of about 3 million dollars a year, the 8 months' figures having advanced from 23 1/2 million dollars in 1900 to 26 1/2 million in 1911 and 29 1/2 million in 1912, or considerably more than double the total of 13 1/2 million recorded in 8 months of 1902.

Breadstuffs.—Under the title, "breadstuffs" the Bureau groups wheat, corn, oats, rice, farinaceous substances (tapioca, etc.), flour, macaroni, bread and biscuits, making a total for the 8 months of over 10 million dollars, against 3 million in the same months of 1902. The chief articles forming this 10 million dollars worth of "breadstuffs" are macaroni, 3 million; rice and rice flour, 2 1/2 million; tapioca, sage, etc., 1 million; wheat nearly 1 million; and flour nearly 1/2 million dollars.

Meats and Food Animals.—Of meat and dairy products, the 8 months' imports increased from $2,182,338 in 1902 to $9,172,905 in 1912. Cheese formed more than half this total, its growth in the period named being from $1,475,751 to $5,744,664. Sausage and sausage casings and cream are the other items of importance. Of food animals imported, cattle is the leading item, 8 months' imports having increased from $906,666 in 1902 to $2,817,538 in 1912. Imports of fish, mostly cod, herring, mackerel, haddock, lobsters and shrimps, increased from $6,421,279 in 8 months of 1902 to $11,102,986 in 1912.

BURNS, CUTS, BRUISES

San Cura Ointment Stops Pain at Once. Draws Out all Poisons, and Heals Promptly.

In all the world there is no ointment, no liniment, no remedy for burns, cuts and bruises that compares with the antiseptic ointment called San Cura.

Every person ought to have a jar on hand. It is the first and best aid to the injured in case of accident, and is the ideal remedy for so many other distressing and painful ailments besides.

For example: It is guaranteed by Brown's Drug Store to cure itching, bleeding and protruding piles, eczema, tetter, ulcers, salt rheum, boils, carbuncles and pimples, or money back.

In case of old running sores, no matter how long standing, a few poultices of San Cura Ointment will draw out every particle of poison, and leave it in such a thoroughly antiseptic condition that the sore will heal, never to break open again.

We advise every reader to get a jar of San Cura Ointment today and keep it ready for an accident or emergency that may happen. 25 cents and 50 cents at Brown's Drug Store on the money-back plan.

SOAP FOR THE SCALP.

Indicted For Murder

Nephew Indicted For Death of Uncle at Tiffin, Ohio.

Tiffin, O., April 16.—James Utz, sole beneficiary of the will of his uncle, Samuel Utz, formerly real estate dealer here, was indicted with Fred Omler on a charge of first degree murder, charged with having caused the death of Utz, Sr.

Omler was a hostler, and it is charged he was hired by the nephew to nurse the uncle. He is charged with having administered carbolic acid to the aged man Feb. 8. Both are held in the county jail.

The Lid Is On In Jeffersonville

Mayor Davis, of Jeffersonville, has declared bloody war on speeding and running autos without lights or tags and he is now having warning cards posted at the entrance to the city, calling attention to the observance of the 8-mile-an-hour speed limit. The edict has gone forth that all offenders, regardless of age, size, color, fat or lean (pocket book), will be fined $25 and the costs. The same applies to motorcyclists who disregard the speed ordinance.

A strict observance of the speed law will be the only salvation of all persons who have the joy riding fever when they strike the precincts of Jeffersonville, as it is said Marshal Allen has got his orders to get busy, and can sight a joy rider half a mile distant.

BURNS, CUTS, BRUISES

San Cura Ointment Stops Pain at Once, Draws Out all Poisons, and Heals Promptly.

In all the world there is no ointment, no liniment, no remedy for burns, cuts and bruises that can compare with the antiseptic ointment called San Cura.

Every person ought to have a jar on hand, it is the first and best aid to the injured in case of accident, and is the ideal remedy for so many other distressing and painful ailments besides.

For example, It is guaranteed by Brown's Drug Store to cure itching, bleeding and protruding piles, eczema, tetter, ulcers, salt rheum, boils, carbuncles and pimples, or money back.

In case of old running sores, no matter how long standing, a few applications of San Cura Ointment will draw out every particle of poison, and leave it in such a thoroughly antiseptic condition that the sore will heal, never to break open again.

We advise every reader to get a jar of San Cura Ointment today and keep it ready for an accident or emergency that may happen. 25 cents and 50 cents at Brown's Drug Store on the money-back plan.

NEW LANGUAGE BEWILDERS.

From the Electric News Bureau in New York the following interesting thoughts are contributed:

Every business has its own language and nomenclature. The average Wall street operator for instance, can tie a neophyte's brain into hard knots in the course of a few moments' conversation on fiscal matters. But the business which presents itself to the layman as the most hopeless riddle is electrical manufacturing. Dr. Schnyder Skaats Wheeler, of Amper, N. J., recently deplored in a public utterance the spirit of opposition which has grown up between the electrical engineer and the world at large.

"You cannot talk in electrical terms to the average layman," he said, "without scaring him to death. The mention of anything as abstruse as induction coils is sure to set his wits to wandering. A certain method of immediately losing your auditor's attention is to make use of a technical term."

Electricity, like Browning, is not difficult to understand if you approach it fearlessly, undaunted by the "Electrictalk" which has been coined during the last couple of decades. There is a definite, logical reason why each one of the terms is in use, and in another decade they will be as familiar to that part of the public which is interested as automobile talk is fast becoming to the public at large. At present "Electrictalk" makes the average man feel that "he it ever so humble there's no place like ohm."

The units of measurement are the basis of "Electrictalk"—amperes, volts and watts. Ampere is the name of the Frenchman who discovered how to measure electric current. The unit of measurement was therefore called an ampere in acknowledgment of his valuable discovery. Electricity may be best compared to water flowing through a pipe. The volume, or gallons of water, correspond to the volume, or amperes of electricity. But water may flow at greater or less pressure. A thousand gallons of water flowing through a pipe at one pound pressure to the square inch would just dribble out at the end. Under a thousand pounds pressure to the square inch it would shoot out of the pipe with fierce energy. The number of pounds of pressure under which water is flowing corresponds to the number of volts of pressure under which an electric current is flowing.

The energy with which water flows out of a pipe is the result of the volume of water and the pressure under which it is flowing. Everyone has noticed how much faster water flows out of a faucet in one place than it does out of a faucet in another. The quantity of water which flows out of the faucet depends upon the water pressure in that particular locality. In the same way the quantity of electricity delivered over a single circuit is the product of the volume (amperes) multiplied by the pressure (volts). The electrical term for the energy thus generated is watts. A thousand watts are called a kilowatt, as this term is part of the metric system.

In order to understand just what a kilowatt is, it is necessary to ascertain what it will do. We know that a stream of water of a given volume flowing at a given pressure into a turbine will generate a certain quantity of horse-power of energy. A kilowatt is the mechanical equivalent of one and a third horse-power. Electric lighting circuits usually carry 110 to 120 volts. An ordinary carbon sixteen candle power lamp takes a little less than half an ampere in volume, and consequently consumes about fifty watts of current. As a thousand watts are equal to one and a third horse-power, fifty watts are equal to less than seven hundredths of a horse-power. A Tungsten twenty candle power lamp takes less than a quarter of an ampere, or about three hundredths of a horse-power.

It is interesting to remember in this connection that a horse-power is actually based as a measure of energy on the amount of power that could be produced by a horse. In the old days before wheels began to be turned by steam they were turned by a horse walking on a tread mill. When the ingenuity of man had discovered steam power it was necessary to have a measure that would convey what it could accomplish in terms then in usage and understood. The man with a steam engine to sell said in substance, "My steam engine can do more than ten of your horses." Hence the expression ten horse-power engine. The man with the steam engine found it necessary, however, to be overconservative in his statements in order to spread belief in his new-fangled machine. He understated, therefore, the amount of work that his steam engine would perform, so that a mechanical horse-power is actually a good deal more than a horse on a tread mill can really accomplish. In the same way manufacturers of electrical machinery have found it necessary to rate their machines exceedingly low. The rating of a machine is its capacity to develop a certain power at a certain speed. In other words, popular incredulity has affected scientific terms to such an extent as to render them not strictly accurate.

Poetry-Today

HE KNOWS.

"At the great palace of magnificent death,

A thousand ways lead to his thousand doors,

Which, day and night are still unbarred to all.

"I know not at which door it will be given to me

At last to enter in.

"I do not know which way of all the thousand ways

Will bring me to that door.

"I do not know the day

When at that unknown door

That way shall find its end.

"But in that unknown way I know my feet are set,

And forward still I fare.

"And way and door and day

Are all well known to Him

Who gave to me my life.

"So forward still I fare

Each day in calm content.

He knows, what need I more?"

"He'll lead my falling steps

All that appointed way,

And ope for me the door."

—Nathaniel Lee

The New High School Building

With thirty-five men at work under the competent management of Supt. C. C. Cunningham, the handsome new High school building under course of construction upon the Central school grounds, is being pushed forward rapidly.

Work upon the structure commenced late last fall, and during the winter when the weather was not too cold the foundation was laid and everything placed in condition so that with the advent of spring weather the work could be carried out with as little delay as possible.

This week may witness the completion of the second floor of the main building, which is some 182 feet by 34 feet, the work upon the two wings not being so far advanced. Building material, consisting of brick, steel, stone, gravel, sand, lumber, cement, etc., fill a goodly part of the school yard. The facing brick are of a peculiar shade of gray, and very attractive, so that when finished the structure will be one of the most handsome as well as the best equipped in any city of 8,000 in the land.

The scene about the new building is a busy one, and a fair idea of the magnitude of the building may now be gained by viewing the work from the street.

Horse Stealing Case Settled

Robert Williams and Rolla Justice the two men mixed up in the peculiar horse stealing case, appeared at the Mayor's office Tuesday morning as previously agreed, and made a satisfactory adjustment of their troubles. Williams securing possession of his horse and rig and leaving for his home at Massville in Ross county.

The sum of $50 and a note for the remaining $58.50 due Justice, was placed in the hands of Justice, who was satisfied with this settlement.

The horse in question was valued at about $200. The sheriff of Ross urged Williams to prosecute his brother-in-law on a charge of horse stealing, as the man had deliberately purloined the animal and rig. However, Williams' wife protested against the charge being placed against her brother and this probably saved him from a serious predicament.

Claim Liquor Is For Private Use

In response to a demand for their appearance before Mayor Smith to explain the presence of eight quarts of whiskey and fourteen quarts of beer in their suit cases, Russel Richardson and Lee Barker dropped into the Mayor's office Monday evening.

Those two men are the ones associated with the two suitcases full of liquor which were captured at the D. T. & I. Sunday afternoon. They stated that the liquor was for private use and that they had no intention of legging it.

As there was little evidence to disprove this statement, Mayor Smith continued the case until a later date.

A kilowatt is the mechanical equivalent of one and a third horse-power. Electric lighting circuits usually carry 110 to 120 volts. An ordinary carbon sixteen candle power lamp takes a little less than half an ampere in volume, and consequently consumes about fifty watts of current. As a thousand watts are equal to one and a third horse-power, fifty watts are equal to less than seven hundredths of a horse-power. A Tungsten twenty candle power lamp takes less than a quarter of an ampere, or about three hundredths of a horse-power.

It is interesting to remember in this connection that a horse-power is actually based as a measure of energy on the amount of power that could be produced by a horse. In the old days before wheels began to be turned by steam they were turned by a horse walking on a tread mill. When the ingenuity of man had discovered steam power it was necessary to have a measure that would convey what it could accomplish in terms then in usage and understood. The man with a steam engine to sell said in substance, "My steam engine can do more than ten of your horses." Hence the expression ten horse-power engine. The man with the steam engine found it necessary, however, to be overconservative in his statements in order to spread belief in his new-fangled machine. He understated, therefore, the amount of work that his steam engine would perform, so that a mechanical horse-power is actually a good deal more than a horse on a tread mill can really accomplish. In the same way manufacturers of electrical machinery have found it necessary to rate their machines exceedingly low. The rating of a machine is its capacity to develop a certain power at a certain speed. In other words, popular incredulity has affected scientific terms to such an extent as to render them not strictly accurate.

Poetry—Today

HE KNOWS.

"At the great palace of magnificent death,

A thousand ways lead to his thousand doors,

Which, day and night are still unbarred to all.

"I know not at which door

It will be given to me

At last to enter in.

"I do not know which way

Of all the thousand ways

Will bring me to that door.

"I do not know the day

When, at that unknown door,

That way shall find its end.

"But in that unknown way

I know my feet are set,

And forward still I fare.

"And way and door and day

Are all well known to Him

Who gave to me my life.

"So forward still I fare

Each day in calm content.

He knows, what need I more?"

"He'll lead my falling steps

All that appointed way,

And ope for me the door."

The New High School Building

With thirty-five men at work under the competent management of Supt. C. C. Cunningham, the handsome new High School building under course of construction upon the Central school grounds, is being pushed forward rapidly.

Work upon the structure commenced late last fall, and during the winter when the weather was not too cold the foundation was laid and everything placed in condition so that with the advent of spring weather the work could be carried out with as little delay as possible.

This week may witness the completion of the second floor of the main building, which is some 182 feet by 34 feet, the work upon the two wings not being so far advanced.

Building material, consisting of brick, steel, stone, gravel, sand, lumber, cement, etc., fill a goodly part of the school yard. The facing brick are of a peculiar shade of gray, and very attractive, so that when finished the structure will be one of the most handsome as well as the best equipped in any city of 8,000 in the land.

The scene about the new building is a busy one, and a fair idea of the magnitude of the building may now be gained by viewing the work from the street.

Horse Stealing Case Settled

Robert Williams and Holla Justice, the two men mixed up in the peculiar horse stealing case, appeared at the Mayor's office Tuesday morning as previously agreed, and made a satisfactory adjustment of their troubles. Williams securing possession of his horse and rig and leaving for his home at Massville in Ross county.

The sum of $50 and a note for the remaining $58.50 due Justice, was placed in the hands of Justice, who was satisfied with this settlement.

The horse in question was valued at about $200. The sheriff of Ross urged Williams to prosecute his brother-in-law on a charge of horse stealing, as the man had deliberately purloined the animal and rig. However, Williams' wife protested against the charge being placed against her brother and this probably saved him from a serious predicament.

Claim Liquor Is For Private Use

In response to a demand for their appearance before Mayor Smith to explain the presence of eight quarts of whiskey and fourteen quarts of beer in their suit cases, Russel Richardson and Lee Barker dropped into the Mayor's office Monday evening.

Those two men are the ones associated with the two suitcases full of liquor which were captured at the D. T. & I. Sunday afternoon. They stated that the liquor was for private use and that they had no intention of "legging it."

As there was little evidence to disprove this statement, Mayor Smith continued the case until a later date.

To Raise $100,000 Within Few Days

Senator J. L. Patterson of Washington C. H., was in this city yesterday for a conference with Robert C. Bancroft, chairman of the finance committee of the Commercial club, in regard to the proposed loan for the extension of the Springfield and Washington traction line.

Mr. Patterson expects to see the local banks work out the $100,000 loan before the end of the present week — Springfield Sun.

Urges Burning Of Chinch Bugs

The wet and cold weather of the past fall and winter has greatly favored the abatement of the chinch bug plague, in Ohio, and if farmers generally will now proceed to destroy the remnant of bugs which have survived the winter, we can reasonably hope to get through the coming summer with less damage than occurred last year.

Owing to the lateness of the spring the bugs will hardly commence to fly freely before the last ten days of April, and if farmers generally will practice concerted burning over the hibernating retreats of the insects during the coming two weeks, many of the surviving insects will be destroyed. Burn over roadside borders, along old fence rows, over bramble thickets, along the borders of woods and grassy borders around fields and gardens—in short burn everything in the shape of dead ground—cover that will burn. Persuade all your neighbors to do likewise, or your own work, no matter how thoroughly performed, will afford only partial relief and that only for the early part of the season.

If you have not read Circular 115 of the Experiment Station on the Chinch Bug, send for it at once.

A Little Farm Well-tilled

On a recent trip to Darke county, Ohio, a representative of the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University, visited a small farm that is remarkably well tilled. Allen Geer, the owner, has 25 acres of land that adjoins the corporation limits of Arcanum. He has owned 20 acres of this for six years and the remainder for one year. The land is slightly rolling, part clay and part black soil. The farm is divided into five-acre tracts on which a 4-year rotation is followed—clover, corn, tobacco and wheat.

The land is thoroughly underdrained, the 25 acres having 650 rods of tile laid at a maximum depth of thirty inches. There are no open ditches and no creeks, thus making the whole tract tillable. There are few similar areas in Ohio devoted to general farming that have received as liberal applications of manure as this farm.

Since the present owner has had possession, 5000 wagon loads of manure have been scattered over its surface. A large part of this manure was procured in town at no other expense than that of hauling and the remainder cost from 10 to 15 cents per load. Besides this liberal manuring, Mr. Geer seldom cuts off any of his clover crop, but plows it under instead. By gradually deepening his furrow, he now plows to a depth of 8 or 9 inches. The returns from this farm have been in keeping with the treatment of it. Mr. Geer stated that his tobacco has never run less than $1000 per acre. A three-fourth acre tract last year made a yield of 1000 pounds. He says the best return he has ever received from tobacco was $197.10 from 1.54 acres. For three consecutive years, his wheat has never averaged less than 20 bushels per acre, and last year his corn made 90 bushels of good corn per acre on five acres. It might be added here that he selects his seed corn in the fall and tests it before planting. For the last five years Mr. Geer has sold over $5000 worth of produce annually, aside from making a living for himself, wife and daughter.

Lease Park For Season

The Neff Park, at Yellow Springs, which, under the able management of its owner, Mr. Theodore Neff, has become one of the most attractive pleasure resorts in this section of the state, has been leased for the coming season to Messrs. M. Ackerman, general manager of the Springfield and Xenia Traction Company, and Mr. Fred Veigel, S. & A. ticket agent at Springfield. The lease was recently signed and Messrs. Ackerman and Veigel already have men at work cleaning up the noted pleasure resort.

Both Mr. Ackerman and Mr. Veigel are connected with the S. & A. traction company but are not leasing the Neff Park for the traction company, but are doing so as a personal enterprise. Mr. Veigel was associated with Mr. Neff the past three seasons in conducting the park.

Eczema Sufferers Could Have Comfort Tonight.

Try this Remedy at Our Risk.

Many persons around here suffer so much from eczema that they cannot sleep at night.

Sometimes the terrible itching does not begin till bedtime. Babies and young children not only suffer greatly but their crying keeps parents and others awake.

Applying a little Saxon Salve, our new skin remedy, would quiet the itching right away and permit sleep. And still better, it is so reliable a remedy that it soon heals the eruption and leaves the skin smooth. Remarkable improvement is soon seen.

In all kinds of eczema, salt rheum, tetter, barber's itch, etc. Saxon Salve has wonderful healing power because it penetrates the skin pores and destroys the germs at the very seat of the disease.

We give back your money if Saxon Salve does not satisfy you perfectly. Blackmer & Tanquary, Druggists, Washington C. H., Ohio.

Mileage and Cost Of Public Roads

According to Bulletin No. 41 of the United States Office of Public Roads, the total mileage of public roads in the United States in 1909 (the latest figures compiled) aggregated 2,129,612 miles. Notwithstanding the rapid growth of the road movement during the last decade, it is a significant fact that the improved roads showed a mileage of but 239,475—or less than 12 per cent of the total.

The states showing the greatest percentage of improved roads and the approximate percentages were:

Rhode Island	49	Wisconsin	17
Massachusetts	49	New York	16
Indiana	36	Washington	13
Ohio	27	Maryland	13
Connecticut	24	Utah	12
New Jersey	23	Tennessee	12
Kentucky	19	S. Carolina	11
Vermont	18	Maine	11
California	18	Michigan	10

The Office of Public Roads estimates the average cost per mile of the improved roads in the various states as follows, the figures being based on reports received from the officials of the state highway departments and from counties, townships and other local subdivisions of the various states.

	Per Mile.
Sand-clay	$ 723.09
Gravel	2,947.09
Macadam	4,989.09
Bituminous	10,348.09
The total estimated cost of the 190,475 miles of improved roads is given as $561,694,806. This sum, while an enormous one, has unquestionably been an immensely profitable investment for both the urban and rural communities where good roads have been constructed, and with the steadily growing demand the next census will certainly show a marked increase, both in percentage and total cost of improved highways in the United States.—The American City.

YOU CAN'T IRON TABLE LINEN AS NICE

as our "Flat Work Ironers" will do it. These machines iron the linen by passing it between a heated steam chest and fly, softly padded rolls.

This gives the same effect as five ironings with a flatiron would, drying the linen perfectly, giving it a natural stiffness and a finish and sheen that brings out every thread in the pattern in a beautiful way.

We see to it that each article is ironed square and even, and that the edges are not turned over, etc.

Vessel With Survivors Is Now Homeward Bound

Special to Herald.

New York, April 16.—Capt. Rostron, of the Carpathia, has sent a wireless message to the Cunard line, stating that the Carpathia with 800 survivors of the Titanic disaster on board, is proceeding slowly toward New York through fields of ice. The Carpathia is expected to arrive in New York Thursday afternoon. No information of any other ship having passengers aboard.

SHIP IS DELAYED.

New York, April 16.—Indications are that the Carpathia will not arrive until Friday morning. Hopes of details all centered on this ship.

FLOOR COLLAPSES THREE MEN ARE INJURED

Cement Floor of New High School Building Falls in and One Man Suffers Broken Leg, While Two Others Are Badly Bruised. Knot in One of the Supports Caused Collapse.

Without a moment's warning a section of the floor under course of construction at the new high school building, collapsed at ten o'clock Tuesday morning, and three men were carried down with the tons of cement and tiling, all suffering more or less painful injuries.

The collapse was due to a knot in one of the supporting timbers which was used to hold up the floor until the cement set. The work of pouring the floor was well under way, and a section 34 by 30 was almost completed when it fell to the bottom of the building fifteen feet below.

Supt. Cunningham, Tut Jackson and John Heiskell were the three men who took the fifteen-foot plunge amid the mass of ruins. Heiskell, a colored employe, had his left leg broken at the ankle, and was taken to the Hudson hospital. Tut Jackson, also colored, was badly bruised and strained, and it was sometime before he could walk.

Supt. Cunningham escaped with a number of cuts and bruises. Dr. Stitt rendered medical assistance.

As a heavy wheelbarrow and some lumber fell upon the three men, their escape from worse injuries, or even death itself was miraculous.

This will cause much delay in laying the floor, as the floor must again be replaced and new cement used. The loss to the contractors will not exceed $50 or $75 it is claimed.

As luck would have it, no employes were beneath the floor when it gave way, or they would have been crushed to death instantly.

"Oh, Grace, what beautiful hair you have!" Yes, Mary, and I owe it all to a most delightful English shampoo, made from tonic cleansing herbs, different from anything else in the world. Any one can shampoo their own hair so easily with it, it frees the scalp from dandruff, and irritation and you see, it does make the hair grow. It is called Mrs. Mason's Old English Shampoo Cream.

"You know, the Duchess of Marlborough, Mrs. Melba and the leading society women of New York, London and Paris would not use and recommend it if it were not the best in the world."

"The Paxton Toilet Co. of Boston, Mass., sent me a booklet written by that famous English Hair Specialist, Mrs. K. Mason of London, England, and it contained reproductions of autograph letters from many of these famous women."

"Why don't you try Mrs. Mason's Old English Shampoo Cream for those scanty locks of yours?"

Blackmer & Tanquary, our local druggist sells it, and a 25c tube is enough for three or four shampoos.

Preparation of Wool for Market

Observations made by the Ohio Experiment Station in a number of scouring plants, worsted mills and wool warehouses show that there is need for improvement in the preparation of this important product for market. Ohio produces as good wool as does any country in the world, but on account of the poor way in which much of it is put up for market it does not always compete as favorably as it should with some foreign wools.

The first essential in the proper preparation of wool for the market is to keep it free from foreign matter. All manure and dirty locks should be removed from the fleece before shearing begins. Care should be exercised to keep the shearing floor swept clean and to remove all straw or dirt which may adhere to the fleece or feet before the sheep are brought to the shearing floor.

Attention should be given to the manner in which the fleece is removed from the sheep. The shears or clippers should be kept close to the body, thus avoiding "second cuts," which result in small patches of wool that are of very little value. The sheep should be so handled as to prevent tearing of the fleece. A torn fleece is hard to tie in an attractive way.

Nothing except light weight, smooth surfaced twine should be used for tying. Heavy twine is unnecessary and its use is injurious to the buyer. In opening a fleece tied with a twine having loose fibres on the surface it is impossible to remove such twine from the fleece without some of the fibres adhering to the wool, and causing a great amount of damage to the cloth made from the wool. Sisal binder twine is notoriously bad in this respect, and some firms will not buy wool tied with Sisal twine except at a heavy discount.

In tying the fleece the edges and all loose locks should be placed on the inside and the fleece carefully rolled so that nothing shows except the clean, white, side of the wool. Not more than one wrap of the twine each way for an ordinary sized fleece, two wraps may be needed for a very large fleece. This amount of string pulled up tightly and securely tied will prevent the fleece from falling apart in handling, and will permit it to present a more attractive appearance than if more string had been used. Most buyers prefer to have wool tied up loosely on a table or floor rather than in a box or other device which compacts the fleece into a tight bundle.

After scouring, the wool should be stored in a dark, dry place where dust will not get to it and where it cannot be reached by rats or other vermin.

WOMAN IS NO LONGER A JOKE

Has Succeeded In Business and Professional World.

WHY NOT IN POLITICAL WORLD?

She Pays Taxes Like a Man, but Has No Voice In Her Expenditure. Is Not Fitted For Duty on Battlefield, but Risks Life In Bringing Soldiers Into World—Experiences of Other Countries With Equal Suffrage Movement.

It has not been very many years ago that a woman in business was thought an absurdity, and when she essayed to enter the professions she was considered in the light of a joke. These times have passed and her success in both fields is no more questioned than is her successful administration of household affairs, and in almost every instance in which you find a business woman you will find that in addition to her business duties she attends to home affairs as well. Men deal with her in business and professional matters just as they deal with other men. Why not, then, give her the same consideration in matters political?

Many women are managing successfully large business interests left them by their husbands, yet when it comes to a question of public policy that may vitally affect these same interests, they must sit calmly by and see the question passed on by the male members of the community, who may possibly not have the slightest interest in the matter up for consideration. If a man had to administer a business under these conditions he certainly would offer more than strenuous objections.

Many women left widows with a family on their hands and a farm to govern and profitably operate, are doing it with success, even though they are handicapped by being unable to express an opinion that will carry any practical weight as to whether the abutting roads shall be improved or whether Mr. Smith or Mr. Jones shall be one of the county commissioners.

When conditions are such as to make it necessary for a woman to pay taxes, and there are hundreds of them who do it, it is only fair that she should be permitted to have a voice in the selection of those who spend the money she contributes.

It does seem that the simple justice of taxation without representation would in itself be enough to make every elector vote for equal suffrage.

When the colonies were taxed without having a voice in the government, the citizens rose at once in emphatic protest against this monumental injustice, yet the descendants of these people are doing the same thing when they ask women to pay taxes, yet give them no voice in their application. Hardly characteristic of our boasted love of a "square deal," is it? That equal suffrage will come is only a question of time and evolution. Why not hasten it by adopting it now, and by the time the other states fall into line with Ohio, our women will have become so familiar with the duties and privileges of the elector that they will be in a position to extend a helpful and encouraging hand to their sisters in the state next door.

In Australia they have allowed women to vote for 10 and 20 years, giving them wide latitude in many cases, yet Australia has a beautiful home life. Australia had the first juvenile court in the world, there are no orphan asylums; every mother is interested in home and welfare work above everything else.

In Finland, where women vote, over 50 per cent of the laws introduced into the three successive diets have concerned the welfare of children. Many have been made for rendering medical aid to poor women throughout the country districts and for instructing them in the proper care of infants; many have treated of the improvement and extension of the public school system and kindred subjects of interest to those who bring children into the world.

Men say that electors must take up arms for the defense of their country and that in this role woman would fare badly; but as Lucy Stone, that marvelous woman, whose utterances were always wise said:

"Some woman risks her life whenever a soldier is born into the world. For years she does picket duty at his cradles. Later on she is his quartermaster and gathers his rations. And when that boy grows to be a man shall he say to his mother, 'If you want to vote you must first go and kill somebody?' It is a coward's argument."

Men will say: "We do not want our wives or mothers or daughters to go to the polls side by side with the impossible class of women." In the states where women have the vote it is a well-established fact that women of the so-called "impossible" class do not vote; they prefer to keep themselves hidden from the glare of daylight; not caring to have their occupation and their place of abode registered; and it is these women whose ideas of government usually agree with those of the men who make their occupation legitimate.

WOMAN IS NO LONGER A JOKE

Has Succeeded In Business and Professional World.

WHY NOT IN POLITICAL WORLD?

She Pays Taxes Like a Man, but Has No Voice In Their Expenditure. Is Not Fitted For Duty on Battlefield, but Risks Life In Bringing Solders Into World—Experiences of Other Countries With Equal Suffrage Movement.

It has not been very many years ago that a woman in business was thought an absurdity, and when she essayed to enter the professions she was considered in the light of a joke. These times have passed and her success in both fields is no more questioned than is her successful administration of household affairs, and in almost every instance in which you find a business woman you will find that in addition to her business duties she attends to home affairs as well. Men deal with her in business and professional matters just as they deal with other men. Why not, then, give her the same consideration in matters political?

Many women are managing successfully large business interests left them by their husbands, yet when it comes to a question of public policy that may vitally affect these same interests, they must sit calmly by and see the question passed on by the male members of the community, who may possibly not have the slightest interest in the matter up for consideration. If a man had to administer a business under these conditions he certainly would offer more than strenuous objections.

Many women left widows with a family on their hands and a farm to govern and profitably operate, are doing it with success, even though they are handicapped by being unable to express an opinion that will carry any practical weight as to whether the abutting roads shall be improved or whether Mr. Smith or Mr. Jones shall be one of the county commissioners.

When conditions are such as to make it necessary for a woman to pay taxes, and there are hundreds of them who do, it is only fair that she should be permitted to have a voice in the selection of those who spend the money, she contributes.

It does seem that the simple injustice of taxation without representation would in itself be enough to make every elector vote for equal suffrage.

When the colonies were taxed without having a voice in the government, the citizens rose at once in emphatic protest against this monumental injustice; yet the descendants of these people are doing the same thing when they ask women to pay taxes, yet give them no voice in their application. Hardly characteristic of our boasted love of a "square deal," is it?

That equal suffrage will come is only a question of time and evolution. Why not hasten it by adopting it now, and by the time the other states fall into line with Ohio, our women will have become so familiar with the duties and privileges of the elector that they will be in a position to extend a helpful and encouraging hand to their sisters in the state next door.

In Australia they have allowed women to vote for 10 and 20 years, giving them wide latitude in many cases, yet Australia has a beautiful home life. Australia had the first juvenile court in the world, there are no orphan asylums, every mother is interested in home and welfare work above everything else.

In Finland, where women vote, over 50 per cent of the laws introduced into the three successive diets have concerned the welfare of children. Many have been made for rendering medical aid to poor women throughout the country districts and for instructing them in the proper care of infants; many have treated of the improvement and extension of the public school system and kindred subjects of interest to those who bring children into the world.

Men say that electors must take up arms for the defense of their country and that in this role woman would fare badly, but as Lucy Stone, that marvelous woman, whose utterances were always wise, said:

"Some woman risks her life when ever a soldier is born into the world. For years she does picket duty at his cradles. Later on she is his quartermaster and gathers his rations. And when that boy grows to be a man shall he say to his mother, 'If you want to vote you must first go and kill somebody?' It is a coward's argument."

Men will say: "We do not want our wives or mothers or daughters to go to the polls side by side with the impossible class of women." In the states where women have the vote it is a well-established fact that women of the so-called "impossible" class do not vote; they prefer to keep themselves hidden from the glare of daylight; not caring to have their occupation and their place of abode registered; and it is these women whose ideas of government usually agree with those of the men who make their occupation legitimate.

FIGHT WHITE SLAVERY

Woman's Influence Needed in Battle Against Vice.

What do the mothers in the small towns know of the pitfalls of the larger cities? Of the terrible white slave traffic that is so evil a "business," the luring of pretty country girls into a life of shame; the working of evil in the minds of bright and healthy boys?

What woman has the right to say anything concerning the morals of the community where her children spend many of their waking hours? Can she control the saloon across the street? Can she exert any influence in the matter of the dance hall where her own daughter may be going?

White slavery is the greatest problem to be faced today and it has its beginning in the low dance hall and in the saloon.

If a girl must work to earn a living give her a decent wage in order that she may not be tempted to do other things for money.

Give her clean surroundings, a good living wage and shorter hours, and the white slave traffic, that terrible blot upon our country's name, will gradually become a thing of the past.

Woman's interest in other women will bring this to pass, because no woman of heart and soul can think of their sisters, no matter how lowly their lives, going astray because the need of money outweighs decency.

The gently bred, the rich, the underplaying woman, if she does not care to extend the helping hand through the ballot that will insist upon better laws for women wage earners, stamps herself at once as selfish and unreasoning. Such women, who consider it demeaning to enter the field with men in casting a ballot for something uplifting, care little for their sisters, however humble they may be.

SUFFRAGISTS NOT CRAZY OLD MAIDS

Many Ohicans Have Another Think Coming on Subject.

Who are the suffragists in Ohio? Do you think they are only a group of wild-eyed reformers and crazy old maids? If so, you have a great awakening before you.

Ohio suffragists include in their ranks some of the greatest minds in the state—men and women who are leaders of thought in all lines.

Senator Theodore E. Burton has declared himself for suffrage.

William Oxley Thompson, the president of Ohio State university, is a member of the Men's Equal Suffrage League of Columbus.

Rev. Theodore Irving Reese, the pastor of Trinity Episcopal church of Columbus, is another prominent member.

Rev. S. S. Palmer of Broad Street Presbyterian church of the Capital City is for suffrage.

Professor Joseph V. Deane, head of the English department of Ohio State university, has delivered some telling speeches for woman suffrage, and, in fact, a large proportion of the most prominent members of the faculty of the State university are outspoken in their desire to see the women enfranchised.

These men are conservative thinkers and they do not form their opinion without reason.

NO LONGER AN EXPERIMENT

Woman Suffrage Proves Success In Six States of Union.

Woman suffrage, which the voters of Ohio will have a chance to adopt by the election to be held this summer, is no longer an experiment. It has already been tried in six states of the Union, and those who doubt can look at the results in those states.

Governor Shafroth of Colorado recently issued a signed statement saying, among other things: "Equal suffrage has established a higher standard of morals in political parties and in office-holders."

Governor Hawley of Idaho writes: "Woman suffrage has proven successful in Idaho in so many ways that I cannot particularize. Elections are quiet and orderly and the character of the candidates is scrupulously scanned."

In Wyoming, where woman suffrage has been tried the longest, the greatest enthusiasm for it is found. For instance, Governor Joseph Carey of that state says: "Woman suffrage in Wyoming has been, in every respect, as successful as man suffrage. It has not debased woman socially, morally or politically. She has not neglected her home duties. It is accepted here as a matter of course, and I know of none who would take the right of suffrage from women if it were in his power to do so."

The Los Angeles Tribune, the morning after the municipal election, said: "The effect of woman suffrage on the election was noticeable. Tobacco-laden, stuffy rooms, barber shops and livery stables as voting stations gave way to schoolhouses. It was the greatest demonstration of their ability to make sober use of the franchise that the women could possibly have made, and not one of the dire things developed yesterday that anti-suffragists had predicted would happen."

FIVE COAL MINERS

Are Religious, Devoted to Their Homes and Families.

Husbands Take Pride in Seeing Their Wives Well Dressed—Accident Will Cause Entire Town to Mourn.

Broughty Ferry, Scotland.—Having a relative engaged in one of the pits at Bowhill, a busy mining district, the writer has been privileged to learn by living among them much of the daily life of the five miner. Taking the first shift, the miner leaves home in time to reach his work at six o'clock. He does not return till he knocks off at two.

The wife of the miner has a long day to get her household duties attended to. She is not an early riser, and getting the children off to school occupies her morning to the full. They pop into each other's houses at any time and are dependent on each other in cases of sickness. A washerwoman is difficult to obtain. Wages are good and the miner does not care to see his wife going out to work. The husbands take great pride in seeing their wives stylishly dressed, and it is a sight to see them out for church on a Sunday. The women will send far to get their millinery up to date. Their taste is good on the whole, though it is largely initiative.

The houses are built in rows, and in the end house perhaps a clerk or overman has his abode; his wife is usually from the city and has smart tastes. She is closely watched, and whatever she gets new to wear is generally worn by the whole row of women.

General families are adept at banking up a fire to last all night, so that "mum" has only to give it a poke in the morning, and mother gets up to a warm fire and a big kettle of boiling water to make the first cup of tea.

They are deeply religious, nearly all churchgoers, at least once a day. Kind-hearted and fond of their families, no better class of men exists among working people anywhere. If they demand good wages they surely earn them.

Accidents are of frequent occurrence. A miner's wife told me that her mind was never at rest. "You never know when your man will be carried to the door crushed in some way," she said.

One Sunday I went to church at Auchterderran. There had been an accident shortly before, when two men lost their lives. I was an utter stranger but I shook with sobs at the feeling way the minister prayed for sorrowing families of the victims. An unusual chord was struck as he also prayed for divine blessing on the "kindly hands that had washed the faces of the dead before the relatives looked on them."

CATCHES LION IN HIS COAT

Unarmed Colorado Trapper and Beast Fall From Tree, but He Holds Game.

Meeker, Colo.—To deliberately climb a tree, unarmed, in pursuit of a mountain lion, follow the beast out to the farthest limb, and, as it sprang at him, catch it headforemost in the folds of a coat, is a feat of daring performed by Richard Tovey, a trapper. When the beast sprang Tovey barely had time to straighten up and open his coat, fanlike. The lion struck head foremost, a gnashing, scratching mass, squarely within its folds. The impact caused the trapper to lose his balance and the two fell to the ground, but Tovey did not loosen his hold. Neither Tovey nor the lion was hurt.

SLY NEEDLE IN HER ARM

Entered Woman's Body Without Her Knowing It—X-Ray Photo Revealed It.

Altoona, Pa.—After being treated for various ailments for eight months, during which time she suffered intense pain, an X-ray photograph of Mrs. Margaret Myers's right forearm was taken, disclosing a sewing needle.

Its presence in her arm she cannot account for, as she has no recollection of ever experiencing any pain until last June, when the arm began to swell, apparently without cause. The needle was cut out.

New York, April 16.—Told wealth was represented among the passengers of the Titanic, there being on board at least six men each of whose fortunes might be reckoned in tens of millions of dollars. A rough estimate of the total wealth reported in the first-class passenger list would reach over $500,000,000.

The wealthiest of the list is Colonel John Jacob Astor, head of the famous house whose name he bears, who is reputed to be worth $150,000,000. Mr. Astor was returning from a tour of Egypt with his bride, who was Miss Madeleine Force, to whom he was married in Providence on Sept. 9.

New York, April 16.—Even the survivors of the Titanic disaster have gone through hardships of exposure and peril, which may have left many of them in a serious condition.

A dispatch given out at the White Star offices said that those rescued by the Carpathia were picked up from a "small fleet" of lifeboats. It was eight hours before that the Titanic is reported to have gone to the bottom.

In the opinion of Vice President Franklin the Carpathia will hasten with all possible speed to make this port, in order that those survivors suffering worse from exposure may be able to obtain proper medical attention.

The answer was: "Sorry to say I have no definite information. As soon as received will notify you."

Astor's Son Weeps.

New York, April 16.—The offices of the White Star line in this city were overrun with anxious inquirers for tidings of relatives and friends known to be on board the ill-fated Titanic. Colonel Astor's son, Vincent, with the colonel's secretary, W. A. Dobson, and A. J. Drexel Biddle inquired anxiously at the offices, but when the officials of the line told the meager news they had Vincent became alarmed and was weeping when he left the office.

Search Continues.

St. John, N. F., April 16.—The steamship Titanic sank at 2:20 Monday morning. The steamer Carpathia was the first to reach the scene. She rescued 675 people. It is not known what is the fate of the remaining 1,500 souls. The still missing steamships Virginian and Parisian are searching for boatloads of the survivors. They will not be able to report until today.

ALMOST A MIRACLE

One of the most startling changes ever seen in any man, according to W. B. Holsclaw, Qarendon, Tex., was effected years ago in his brother. "He had such a dreadful cough," he writes, "that all our family thought he was going into consumption, but he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, and was completely cured by ten bottles. Now he is round and well and weighs 218 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy for Coughs and Colds with excellent results." It's quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrup. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

1,300 Perish When Titanic Sinks

cial, its value would not reach over $500,000. The Titanic carried 3,422 bags of mail of unknown value, which it is hardly likely was saved.

PASSENGERS WERE WEALTHY

At Least $500,000,000 Represented Among Those on Ill-Fated Liner.
New York, April 16.—Untold wealth was represented among the passengers of the Titanic, there being on board at least six men each of whose fortunes might be reckoned in tens of millions of dollars. A rough estimate of the total wealth reported in the first-class passenger list would reach over $500,000,000.

The wealthiest of the list is Colonel John Jacob Astor, head of the famous house whose name he bears, who is reported to be worth $150,000,000. Mr. Astor was returning from a tour of Egypt with his bride, who was Miss Madeleine Force, to whom he was married in Providence on Sept. 9.

Hopland Guggenheim, probably the next in financial importance, is the fifth of the seven sons of Meyer Guggenheim, who founded the American Smelting and Refining company, the great mining corporation. His fortune is estimated at $95,000,000.

George D. Widener is the son of P. A. B. Widener, the Philadelphia traction king, whose fortune is estimated at $50,000,000. Isador Straus, one of New York's most prominent dry goods merchants, notable for his philanthropies, has a fortune also estimated to be worth $50,000,000.

J. Bruce Ismay, president and one of the founders of the International Mercantile Marine, who has always made it a custom to be a passenger on the maiden trip of every new ship built by the company, is said to be worth $10,000,000.

Colonel Washington Roebling, the builder of the Brooklyn bridge, president and director of John A. Roebling's Sons company, is credited with a fortune of $25,000,000.

BURIED DEEP IN SEA
At Least Two Miles of Water Covers Wreck and Victims.

Halifax, April 16.—The deathbed of the $10,000,000 steamer Titanic, and of probably many who must have been dragged with her, is two miles at least below the surface of the sea.

The calculation was made by an official of the government marine department, who finds that depth on the marine chart at a point about 500 miles from Halifax and about 70 miles south of the Grand Banks, where he believes the Titanic went down.

This location is midway between Sable Island and Cape Race and in line with those dangerous sands which, however, might have proved a place of safety had there been time to run the Titanic there and beach her.

Boats Before Help Arrived.

New York, April 16.—Even the survivors of the Titanic disaster have gone through hardships of exposure and peril, which may have left many of them in a serious condition.

A dispatch given out at the White Star office said that those rescued by the Carpathia were picked up from a "small fleet" of lifeboats. It was eight hours before that that the Titanic is reported to have gone to the bottom.

In the opinion of Vice President Franklin the Carpathia will hasten with all possible speed to make this port, in order that those survivors suffering worse from exposure may be able to obtain proper medical attention.

PRESIDENT IS WORRIED

Makes Prompt Inquiry as to Fate of Captain Butt.

New York, April 16.—The following message from President Taft was received by Vice President Franklin of the International Mercantile Marine.

"Have you any information concerning Major Butt? If you will communicate with me at once I would greatly appreciate it."

The answer was: "Sorry to say I have no definite information. As soon as received will notify you."

Astor's Son Weeps.

New York, April 16.—The offices of the White Star line in this city were overrun with anxious inquirers for tidings of relatives and friends known to be on board the ill-fated Titanic. Colonel Astor's son, Vincent, with the colonel's secretary, W. A. Dobbin, and A. J. Measles Galore Near Luttrell

The appearance of a large number of cases of measles in the western part of the county in the Palmer school house neighborhood, has caused a marked decrease in the attendance of the schools.

The disease is not of a very severe form, and none of those afflicted are ill more than a few days.

This disease has appeared in a number of parts of the county, but so far no cases have proven fatal so far as known.
